Federated - Interoperable - Open-Source-Ready

Perfectly connected on the safe side!

Up to now, you know stashcat as the messenger for in-house communication. In the future, you will be able to use the platform for communication and digital work beyond your company or authority! Through the federative connection with other organizations, you create interoperability and extend your #favorite messenger with any functions for workflows via chat bot.

This allows stashcat to integrate perfectly with your federated strategy.

The new features

Server Connect

So far you know stashcat as the messenger for in-house communication – with Server Connect not only stashcat servers but additionally all other messenger services based on Matrix protocol standard can connect in the future.

Chat Bot

The chat bot is an artificial intelligence that can be equipped with predefined as well as individual commands to simplify users' access to information and to control internal functions as well as external connections.

Marketplace

stashcat continues to open up to external applications: Via individual developments with the provided API, you can optimally map the workflows of your employees in stashcat. In the future, widely used and industry-specific applications will be offered in the Marketplace.

Your advantages

Cross-platform

Interoperable and easy communication between all messengers based on the Matrix protocol.

Cut costs and effort

By using a uniform standard, you automatically reduce effort and costs.

Use only one app

You only need stashcat to communicate across sites or organizations, dramatically shortening response times.

Individual hosting

Use stashcat as software as a service, private cloud or on-premises.
